

Chapter 08

Resources to assess your level of development

Other resources you may find useful

ValueMatch offers online assessment tools and additional services based on the concepts behind Spiral Dynamics and Reinventing Organizations. While other tests and assessments focus on human behavior, the instruments used by ValueMatch measure the underlying values systems. This reveals the dynamic relationship between people and their working environment, and helps employees, teams and organizations to work better together. You receive a personal report with a values profile describing your development status and ability to operate in a variety of complex systems. You also have the option of discussing the report with a coach.

The Vertical Development Academy offers an elaborate (and pricey) Maturity Map (MAP) showing you which level of maturity you have reached in the stages of human development. Based on research findings, MAP offers a finely tuned, sophisticated development profile containing both quantitative and qualitative insights. After you receive your MAP report, you meet online with a certified Leadership Maturity Coach (LMC) to discuss your MAP results and work on your development goals.
